HPM Insurance Hires Personal Lines Supervisor

HPM Insurance is pleased to welcome Karen Hayden to its team as Personal Lines Supervisor.

Hayden joins the HPM team with more than 20 years of insurance experience and 8 years of supervisory experience from the largest independent agency in the state. She also has in-depth understanding of high net-worth clients and understands the complexities of such accounts.

President and CEO of HPM Insurance, Lyle Fulkerson, is pleased to have Hayden on the team. "Karen has the experience and professionalism we were looking for to further develop our personal lines team," Fulkerson said. "We know our employees and clients alike will appreciate the talents she brings to the table with her unassuming yet confident approach to sales and customer service."

Hayden was happy to join HPM Insurance because she recently relocated to Southern New Hampshire from the Exeter area and wanted to work with a growing agency. "I am excited to bring my experience to a team who is open to new ideas and has the best interests of their employees and clients at heart," said Hayden. "This helped with the difficult decision of leaving my prior place of employment given I was there for more than 20 years."

HPM Insurance established its roots in Southern New Hampshire in 1860 and has offices in both Amherst and Bedford. For generations the agency has protected businesses and families with personal attention to its client's needs.
