St. Joseph Hospital Announces Kevin Flynn as Its New Vice President of Mission Integration

Tewksbury, MA – June 21, 2018 – Today, St. Joseph Hospital, a member of Covenant Health, proudly announces the addition of Kevin Flynn, Vice President of Mission Integration, to its leadership team. In this meaningful role, Flynn will work closely with the board, senior team and clinical staff to thoughtfully oversee the hospital's mission is implemented across all its initiatives.

"I'm genuinely delighted to welcome Kevin to St. Joe's mission integration team," said Reynold Spandoni, Senior Vice President, Mission Integration and Interim President of St. Joseph Hospital. "He has extensive experience in health care management and will be an integral part of executing our mission by participating in ethical consultations with clinical teams, coordinating the local ministerial identity assessment program and assisting in evaluating, as well as measuring, the community's health needs."

"Mission is the cornerstone of St. Joseph Hospital's identify. It's deeply engrained in its culture and means a great deal to its employees as well as its patients and their families," said Flynn. "I look forward to working closely with teams throughout the hospital to ensure mission remains a sincere and important part of the employee and patient experience. After all, it is what sets us apart from much of our competition and makes us special."

Prior to joining Covenant Health, Flynn was a clinical administrator at Einstein Healthcare Network in Philadelphia. He holds a Master's in Theology from the University of Notre Dame and a Doctorate in Medical Humanities from Drew University. Additionally, Flynn is a member of the National Catholic Bioethics Center and American Society of Bioethics and Humanities.
